

ELTE WORKSHOP IN INTERNATIONAL AND EUROPEAN STUDIES

THE TRANSFORMATION OF THE INTERNATIONAL ORDER IN A TIME OF CRISIS

30th March, 2023

Venue: ELTE TáTK, Faculty Council Room (1117 Budapest, Pázmány Péter sétány 1/a, Room 0.100C)

This is the launch of the Institute of Political and International Studies' annual workshop series, where we discuss the actual state and changes of the international order and European integration and the implications of this in political, socio-economic and cultural life. We would like to host a friendly and informal event that will be highly discursive and relevant to topical academic debates and questions, where we could discuss our latest research, and share ideas with scholars from different parts of the world.

Time	Panel	Title	Presenter
8:45	Opening remarks
9:00-9:15	Panel 1: European Politics and Law Chair: András Szalai	Navigating between rule of law requirements and budget concerns – The case of Hungary and the EU	Veronika Czina
9:15-9:30		Legal and Political Approaches to Rule of Law Oversight of Backsliding Member States	Gábor Halmai
9:30-9:45		Exceptionalism in the European Union	Tamás Dezső Ziegler
9:45-10:00		Towards a more effective EU? The use of qualified majority voting in the Common Foreign and Security Policy	Viktor Szép
10:00-10:30		discussion
10:30-10:45	Panel 2: International Relations in a New Era Chair: Áron Tábor	East Central Europe in a changing global order	Krisztina Arató
10:45-11:00		Revisiting the theoretical framework of the global order	Beáta Farkas
11:00-11:15		North Korea's strategy for facilitating a new Cold War	Tibor Mezei
11:15-11:30		A realist account of political obligation and IR: A reappraisal of Ilan Zvi Baron's plea	Zoltán Gábor Szűcs
11:30-12:00		discussion
12:00-13:00	lunch

13:00-13:15	Panel 3: America Studies Chair: Andrew Ryder	Who makes America great? Domestic polarization, self-inflicted wounds, and the crisis of the liberal international order	Áron Tábor
13:15-13:30		US-China Rivalry and the Future of the International Order	Matteo Dian
13:30-13:45		Counterhegemony or non-alignment? Foreign policy aspirations of the Latin American "pink tide" and "new pink tide" governments	Béla Soltész - Gergő Máté Nagy
13:45-14:00		Intergenerational Trauma and Changing Memories of the War across Generations: Lessons from Bosnian Refugee Communities of the U.S.	Laura Kromják
14:00-14:30		discussion
14:30-14:45	Panel 4: Environmental and Social Economic Crises Chair: Tamás Dezső Ziegler	Integration of social and environmental concerns in international trade law	Balázs Horváthy
14:45-15:00		Shall We Look Up? International Environmental Law, Climate Change, and Environmental Litigation	Gábor Kecskés
15:00-15:15		What impact do financial crises and increasing economic disparities within states have on the stability of international legal order? Techniques of prevention of instability and keeping collective security in contemporary international law	Eugenio Zaniboni
15:15-15:30		The Relevance of Karl Polanyi to Hungary in a Time of Crisis	Andrew Ryder
15:30-16:00		discussion
16:00	Closing remarks		