

SUSTAINABLE HEALTHCARE

Egészség-gazdaságtani Szimpózium

ELTE, Társadalomtudományi Kar

Időpont: 2016. November 29. (kedd)

Helyszín: ELTE ÁJK Díszterem, Budapest V. ker. Egyetem tér 1-3.

9.00 – 9.15	Megnyitó
9.15 – 9.40	Martin McKee: Achieving the SDGs: the quest for universal health care
9.40 – 10.05	Armin Fidler
10.05 – 10.30	Szolyák Tamás: Health inequalities. Barriers and problems in lower income European countries
10.30 – 10.55	Gervai Nóra: Universal health care coverage in Hungary - the situation of persons with undue healthcare entitlement
10.55 – 11.20	Kollányi Zsófia: Inequalities in access to health care: result of the European Social Survey
11.20 – 11.35	Szünet
11.35 – 12.00	Lou Garrison: Toward a broader value framework for health technology assessment: expanded cost-effectiveness analysis
12.00 – 12.25	Ansgar Hebborn: Patient access to new medicines under economic constraints - an industry perspective
12.25 – 12.50	Ron Akehurst: Maintaining rational decision making in the face of declining resources for health and increasing demand
12.50-13.05	Szünet
13.05 -13.30	Paul Keown: Cutting-edge care: the possibilities of personalized medicine
13.30 – 13.55	Inotai András: Extending the use of biosimilar drugs in lower income Central Eastern European countries: How to handle uncertainty of switching to improve patient access?
13.55 – 14.20	Kaló Zoltán: Implementation of health technology assessment in lower income European countries: consequences of different scenarios
14.20 – 14.30	Zárszó

